OLÁ, SARGENTO!
AQUI.

AQUI O
QUÊ?

O SUBSTITUTO
DO BUZZARD.

FALANDO NISSO,
GOUBE QUE TALVEZ
SALVE A OUTRA PER-NA DELE.

DEUS, O QUE ELES
ESTÃO FUMANDO
NOS MANCANDO UM
N.D.M. DESSES?

ORDENS
DE CIMA.

DE CIMA?

ELE TEM DOCU-
MENTOS. PROVA-
VELMENTE DIZ
TUDO NELES.

MOSTRE
SUAS OR-
DENS AO
SARGENTO.

ENFIE SUAS ORDENS
ONDE O SEU NÃO BATE,
GAROTO. NÃO DOU
A MÍNIMA DE ONDE
VOCÊ É.

MANTENHA SEUS OLHOS
ABERTOS, SUA ARMA LIMPA
E SEU RABO ABAIXADO, ENTENDIDO?

E NÃO
ME ENCARE
ASSIM...

...NÃO SEI DIZER SE VOCÊ
VAI RIR OU CHORAR.

TODOS PEGUEM
SUAS MERDAS E
EM FORMA!

DEVÍAMOS TER CHEGADO NA BIFURCAÇÃO DO RIO TRÊS HORAS ATRÁS.

NÃO FOI CULPA MINHA, BAND-AID! PASSAR PELO ARROZAL FOI UMA PÉSSIMA IDEIA. VOCÊ SE PERDE MUITO FÁCIL.

DEVÍAMOS TER FICADO NO CAMINHO PARA A VILA.

QUAL É, GREEN. ISSO SERIA COMO ENTRAR EM UM CAMPO DE TIRO.

BIG JACK TEM RAZÃO, SARGENTO.

ENTÃO VAMOS ACHAR UMA ROTA E U NOS LEVE PARA O OUTRO LADO, ENTÃO VOLTAMOS.

EI, MUDDY...

...O NOVATO É CALADO, NÃO É?

ENTÃO VÁ FALAR COM ELE, BUMBLES.

DE ONDE ELE DISSE QUE ERA?

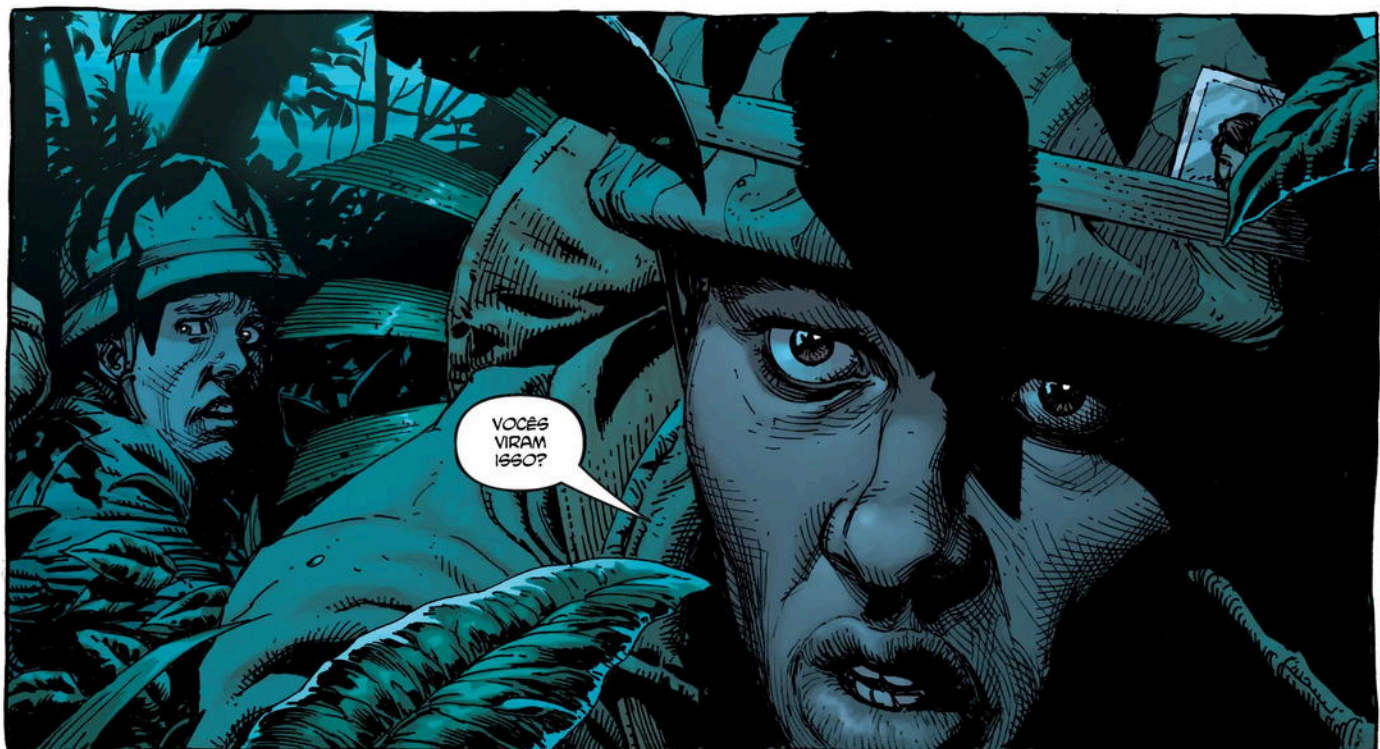

ELE NÃO DISSE, EU ACHO.

EI, BAND-AID, VOCÊ TEM UMAS MEIAS SECAS?

ESTOU USANDO AS ÚLTIMAS.

RECUEM!

SE MEXA,
N.D.M.!

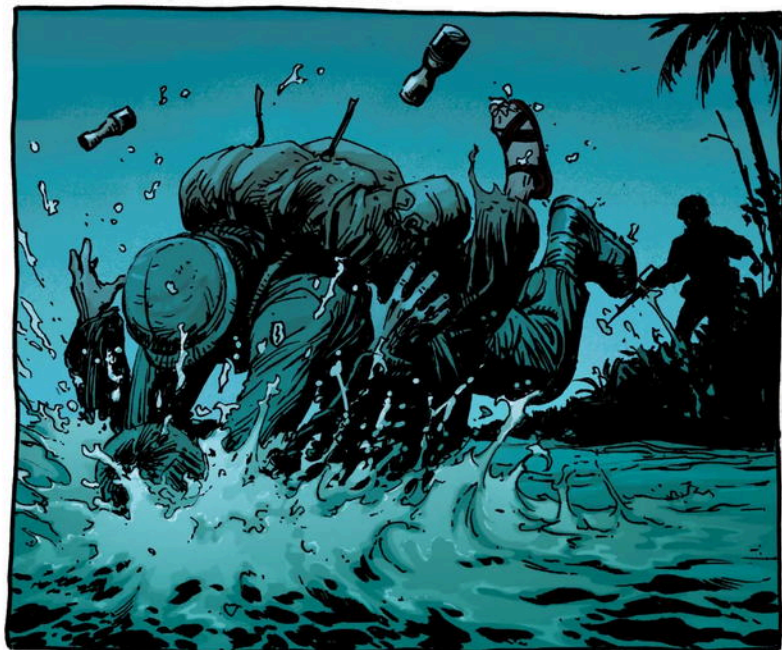

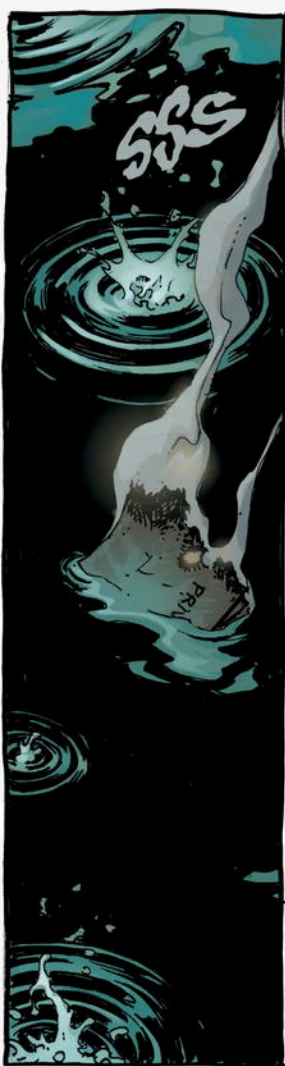

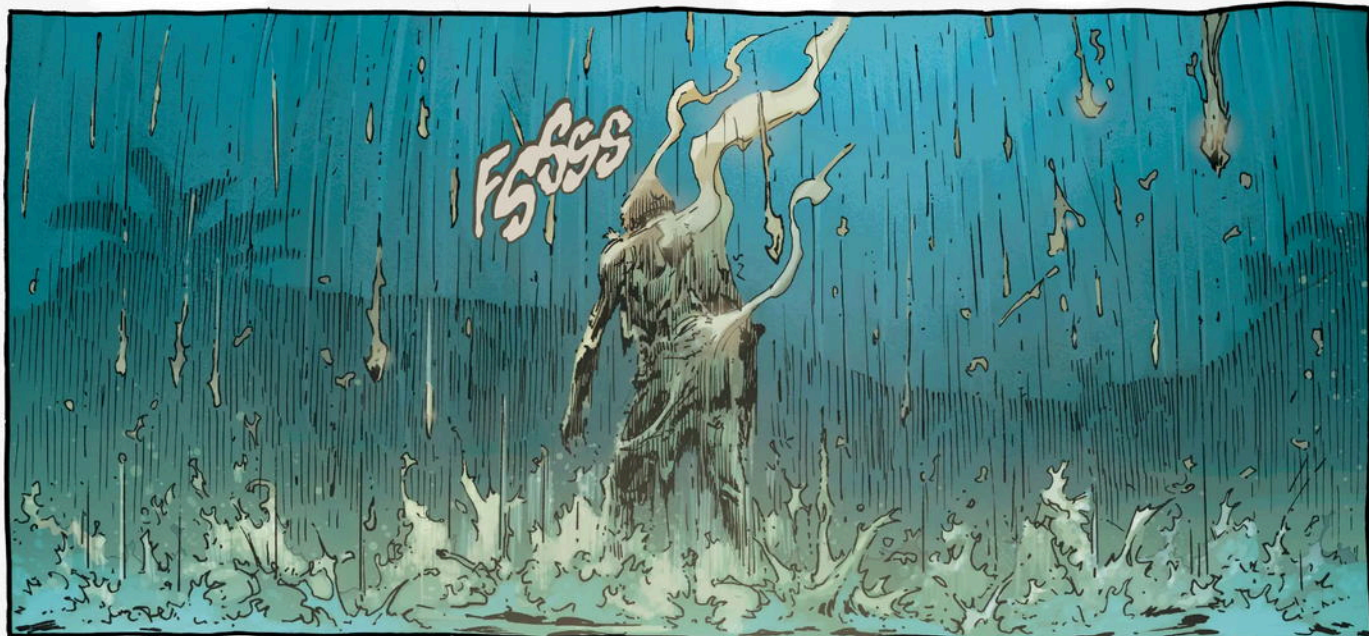

*NOVATO DE MERDA

Ei!

VOCÊ ESTÁ
CORRENDO PARA
O LADO ERRADO,
SEU IMBECIL!

SARGENTO?
O QUE FAZEMOS?

SARGENTO?

TEMOS
NOSSAS ORDENS.

SEGUIMOS EM FRENTE.
ENCONTRAMOS OS V-C ESCONDI-
DOS NAQUELA VILA E ACABAMOS
COM ELES, POR BUZZARD, E PELO BAND-AID AGORA.

E QUANTO...
A AQUILO?

ELE NOS
SALVOU, GREEN.

"ELE" É
UMA PORRA DE
ROBO, MUDDY,
NÃO É "ELE"!

QUE MERDA
DEVEMOS FAZER,
SARGENTO?

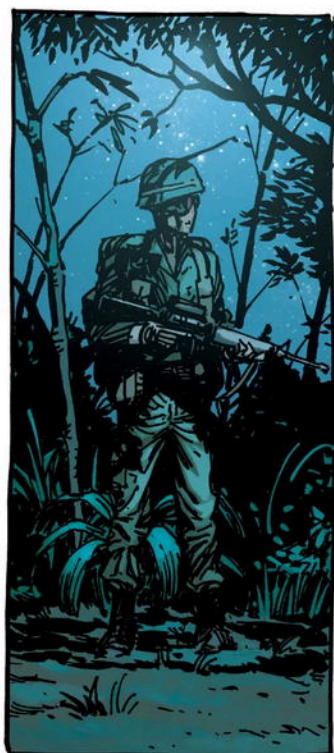

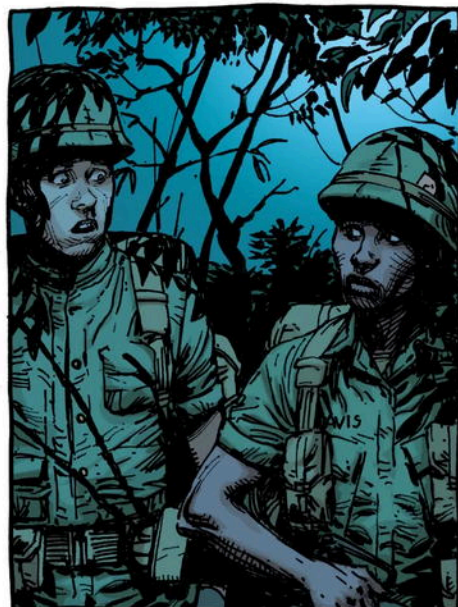

ELE ESTÁ VINDO
PARA CÃ...

MANTENHA
SUA ARMA ABAI-
XADA JACK.

DROGA,
VOCÊ TAMBÉM, MATCHES.

MERDA, SARGEN-
TO, E SE ESSA COISA
ATIRAR EM NÓS?!

SUA VEZ.

ALGUÉM TEM CORAGEM DE COBRIR?

EU TENHO.

BIG JACK COBRIU, GREEN? SARGENTO?

NAO GOSTO DESSE SORRISO. ESTOU FORA.

EU TAM-BÉM.

BUMBLEB? MUDDY?

DESISTO.

EU CUBRO.

VEJAM E CHOREM, MOÇAS!

UMA QUADRA!

HA HAHHA HA!

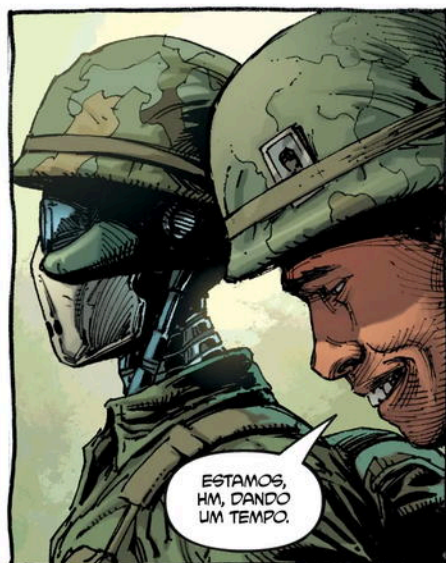

MERDA.

VEM PARA O PAPAI, CARAS!

VEJAM A MANGA DELE, ELE PODE TER UM AS NA NELA.

O QUE DIABOS UM ROBÔ VAI FAZER COM BARRAS DE CHOCOLATE E CIGARROS?

ESPECIALMENTE OS CIGARROS!

VOCÊ NÃO VAI FUMAR ELES, VAI, CARA? ELES SÃO A ÚNICA ALEGRIA QUE TENHO NA VIDA, ESPECIALMENTE AQUI!

O QUE POSSO TE DAR EM TROCA?

QUE TAL ÓLEO? TODO ROBÔ GOSTA DE ÓLEO, CERTO?

...DOIS IRMÃOS. O MAIS VELHO ESTÁ LUTANDO NO NORTE E O MAIS NOVO ESTÁ LUTANDO NO SUL, ESTOU NO MEIO DOS DOIS.

VAMOS ABRIR UM RESTAURANTE QUANDO VOLTARMOS PARA EVA. THREE BROTHERS CONEY.

VOCÊ JÁ FOI A DETROIT, VOCÊ VAI, HM?

...LAMENTO SOBRE ANTES, MAS... BEM, OS ÚNICOS ROBÔS QUE JÁ OUVI FALAR SÃO OS DOS LIVROS QUE EU LIA, QUE QUERIAM DOMINAR A PORRA DO MUNDO.

VOCÊ NÃO QUER DOMINAR O MUNDO, QUER?

...ELA TEM SEIS E TEM ESSA RISADA.

SÓ QUERO VOLTAR E OUVIR AQUELA RISADA.

HAAAAHAHAHA!

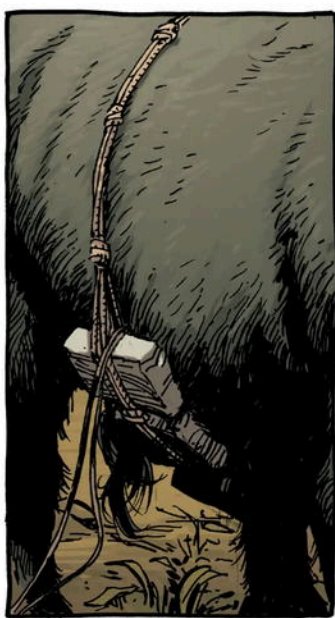

VOCÊ PARECE UMA PLANTA DOMÉSTICA, JOE.

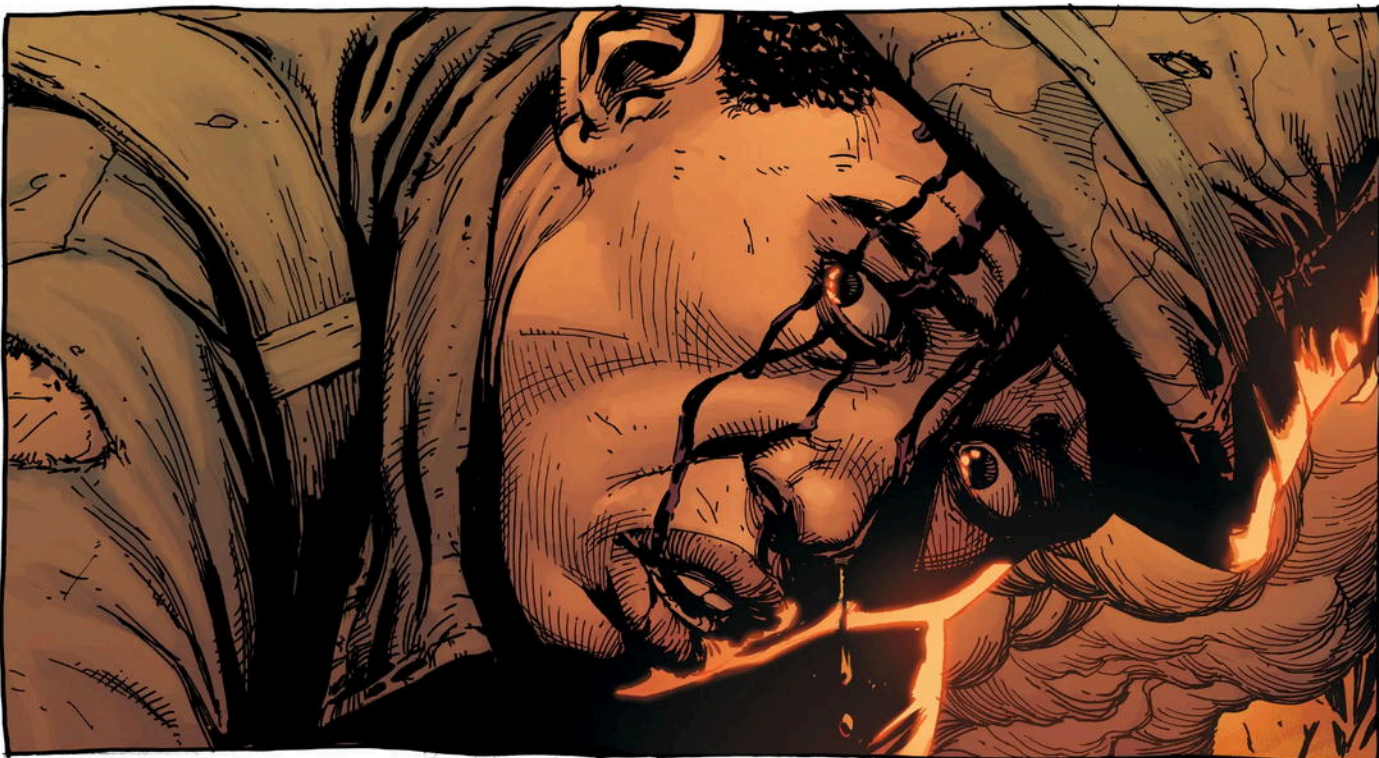

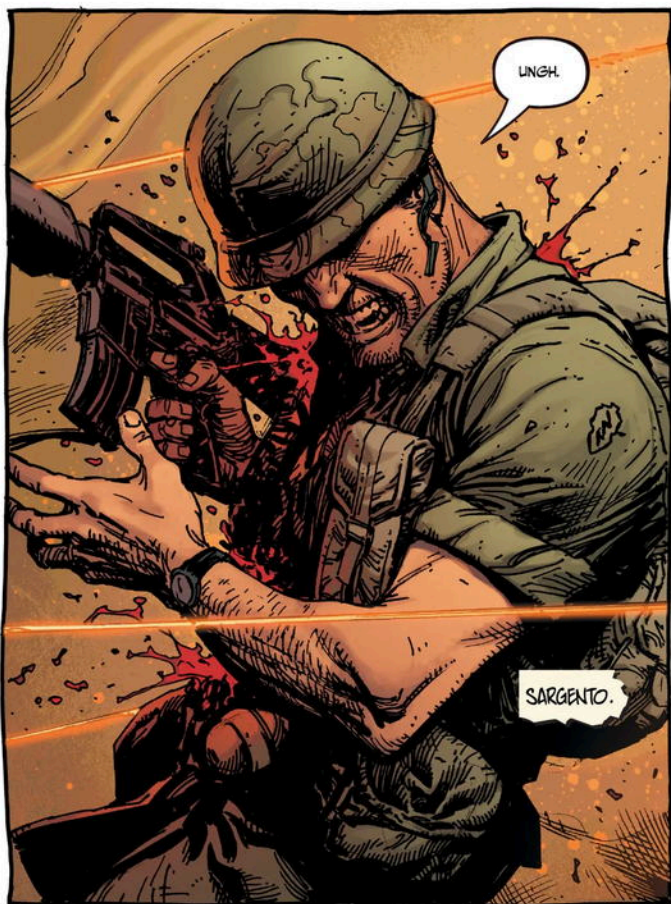

VALEU, JOE.

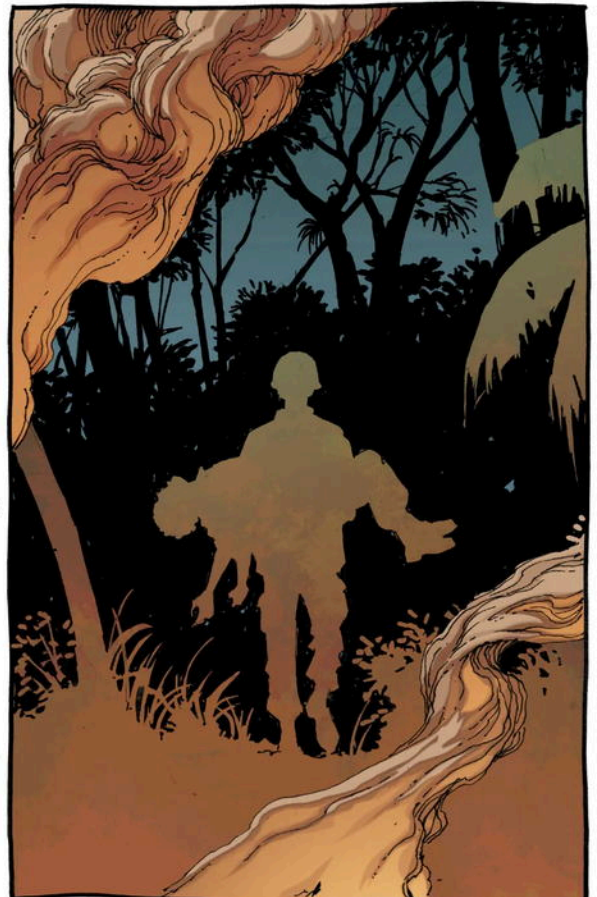

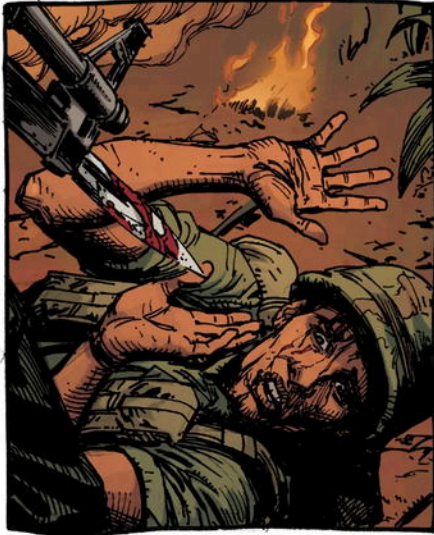

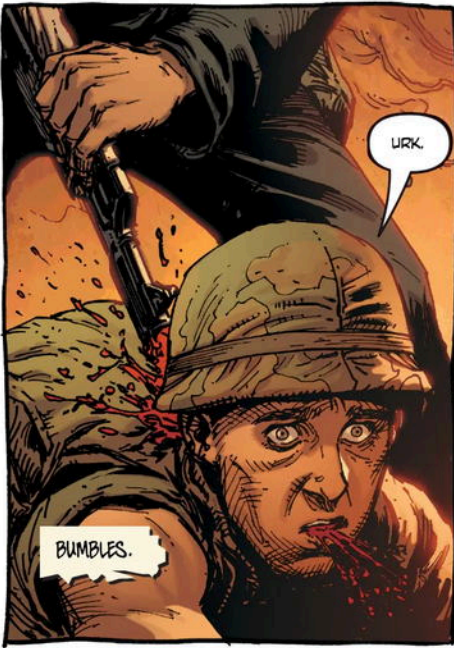

ESCALAR FOI MAIS DIFÍCIL DO QUE IMAGINEI QUE SERIA.

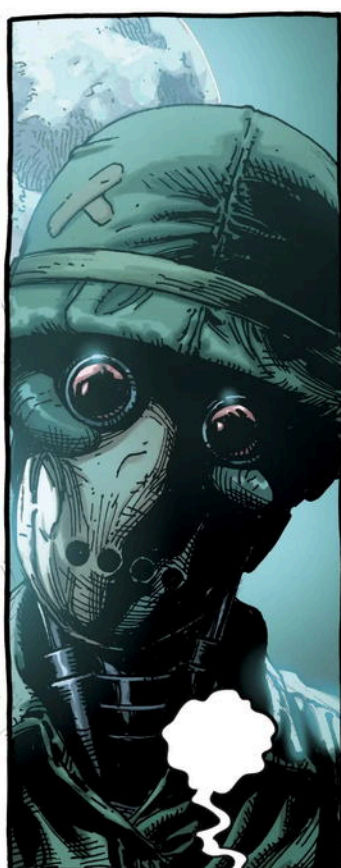

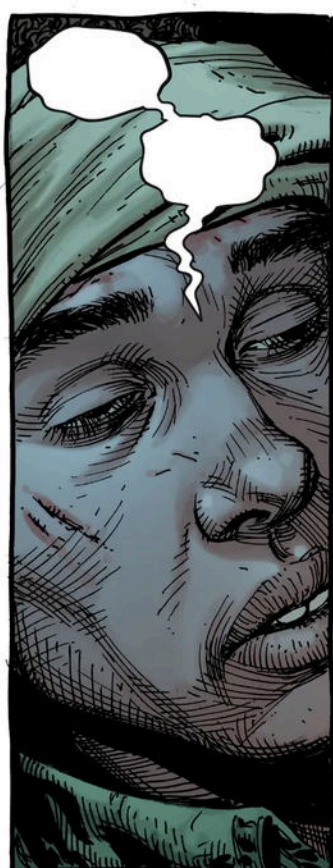

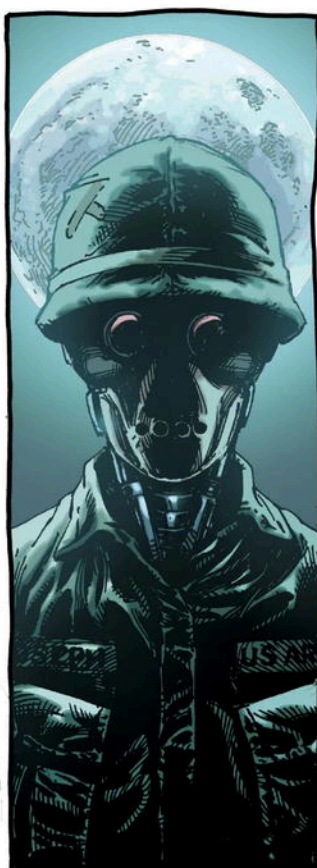

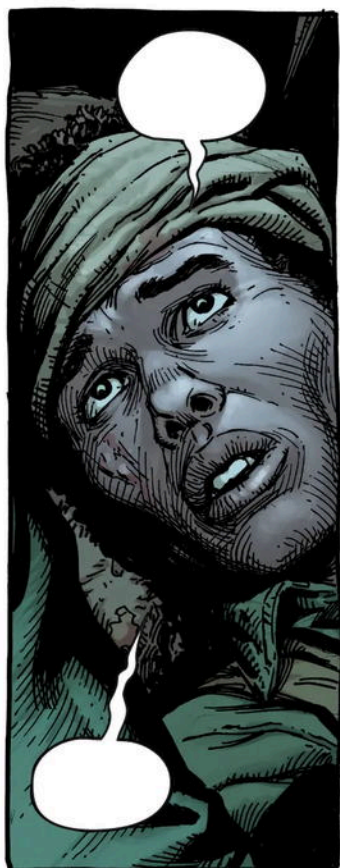

TUDO AQUI É ASSIM.

A MISSÃO
ACABOU. SIGA
PARA O SUL, PA-
RA A BASE.

WHRR

REPITO, UNI-
DADE BETA,
VÁ PARA O
SUL.

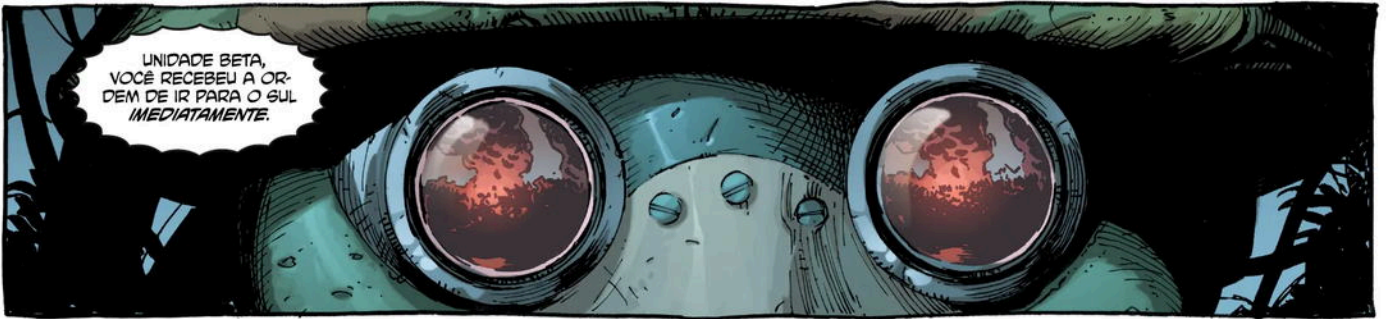

"ELES HM-MATARAM
TODOS, HM-JOE."

WHRR

"ELES MATARAM
NOSSOS AMIGOS."

UNIDA-
DE BE-

BETA?

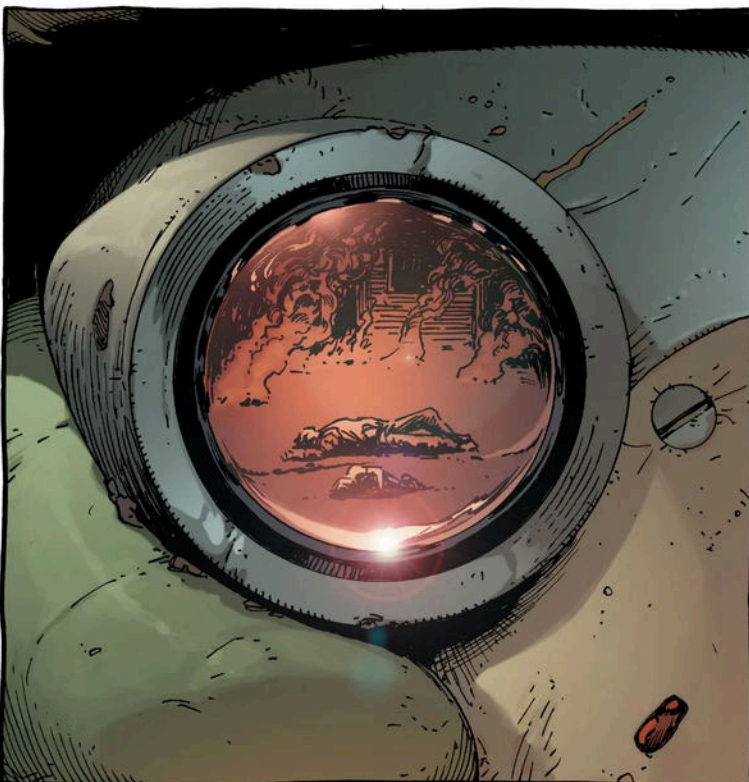

KLANK
KLANK

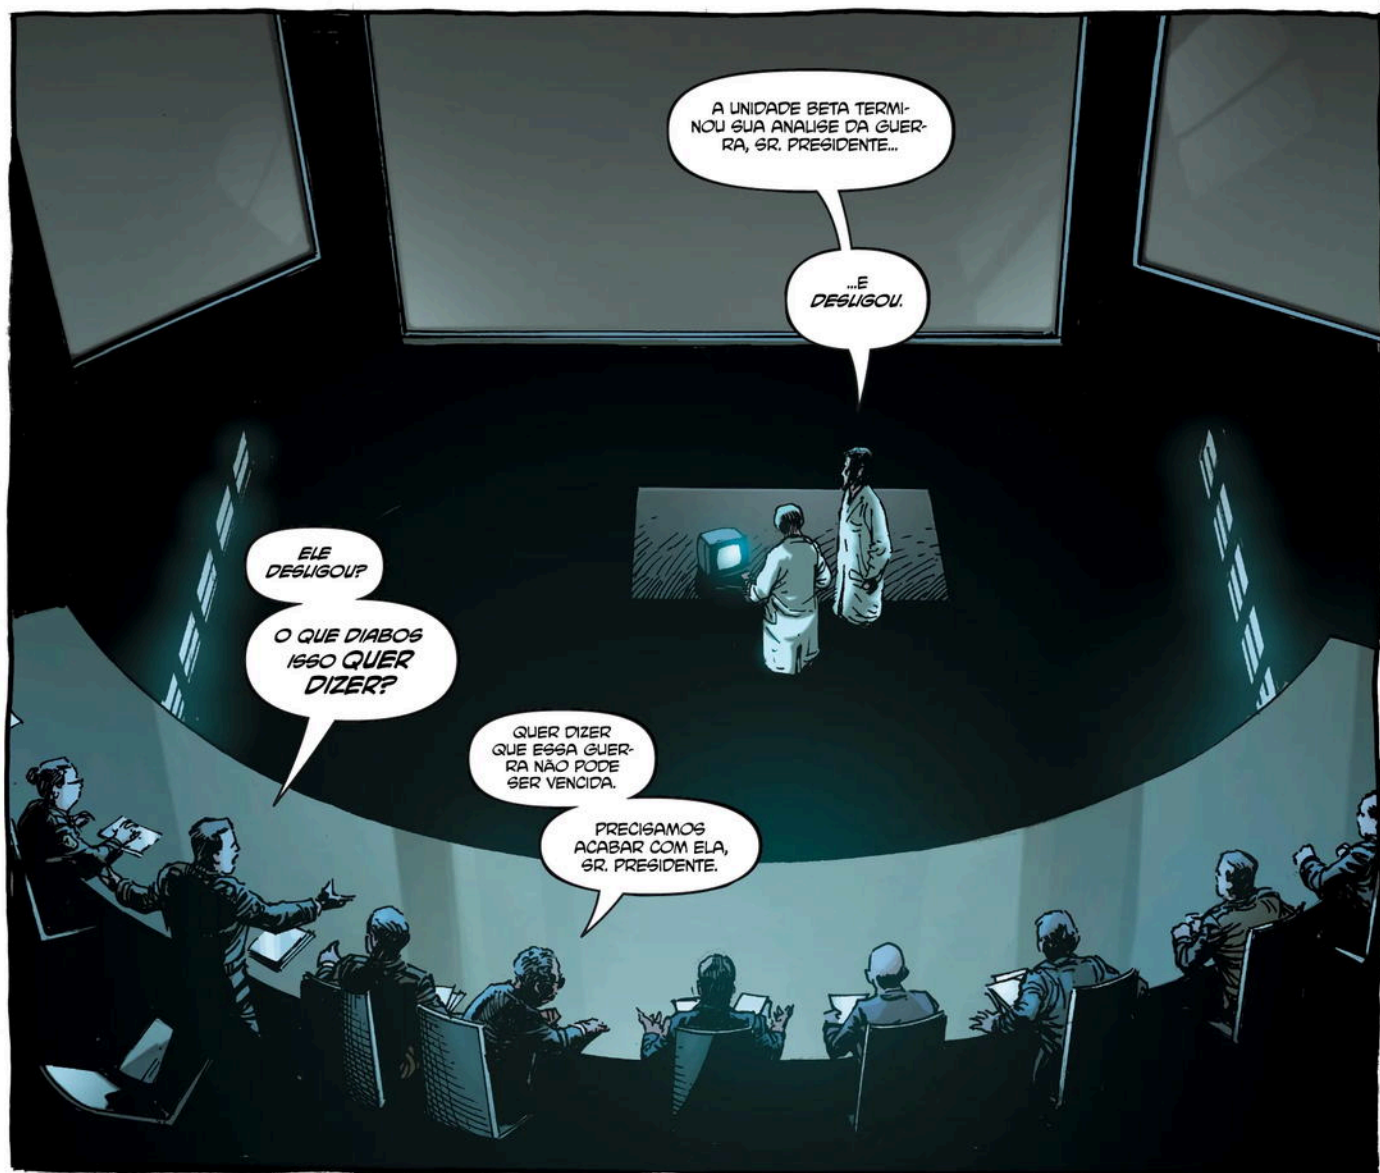

KLANK KLANK KLANK

VOCÊ
VAIA PARA CASA.

VAI LEVAR ALGUM TEMPO,
CABO DAVIS, MAS VAMOS
TE COLOCAR DE PÉ DE NOVO
E VOCÊ VAI EMBORA.

MAS
O ROBO...

OK, OUGA. SE VOCÊ
CONTINUAR CONTADO PARA
TODOS AQUI SOBRE UM
"SOLDADO ROBO", VOCÊ
NÃO VAI PARA CASA DO JEITO
QUE ACHA QUE VAI.

MAS EU VI,
DOUTOR.

ELE SALVOU
MINHA VIDA.

OS SOLDADOS VEEM MUITAS
COISAS NESSAS SELVAS QUE É
MELHOR DEIXAR PARA TRÁS.

SEI QUE VOCÊ ACHA QUE VIU AL-
GO, VOCÊ ACREDITA NISSO, MAS É
SUA MENTE PREGANDO PESAS.

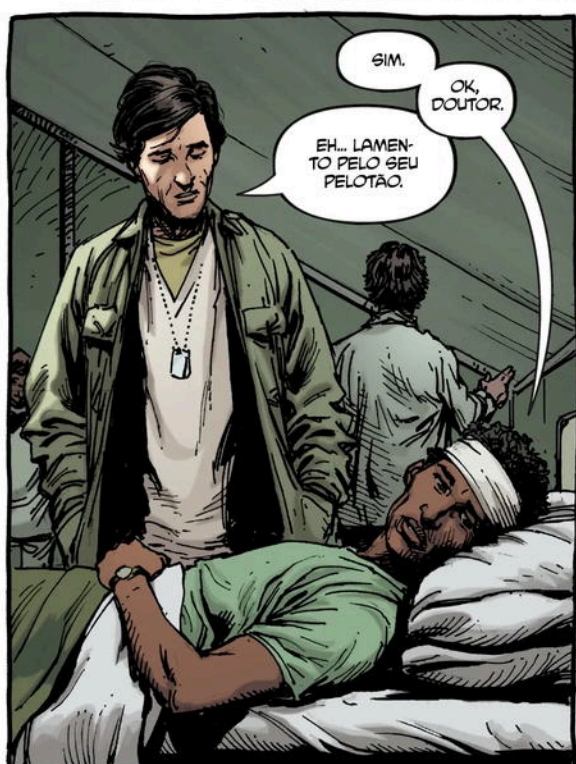

PORQUE O
QUE VOCÊ NÃO
QUER PENSAR
DE NOVO NO
QUE VOCÊ REAL-
MENTE VIU.

MAS...

SE CONTINUAR FALANDO
ISSO, VOU SER OBRIGADO
A COLOCAR UMA PULSEIRA
AZUL EM VOCÊ.

VOCÊ NÃO QUER
UMA PULSEIRA
AZUL.

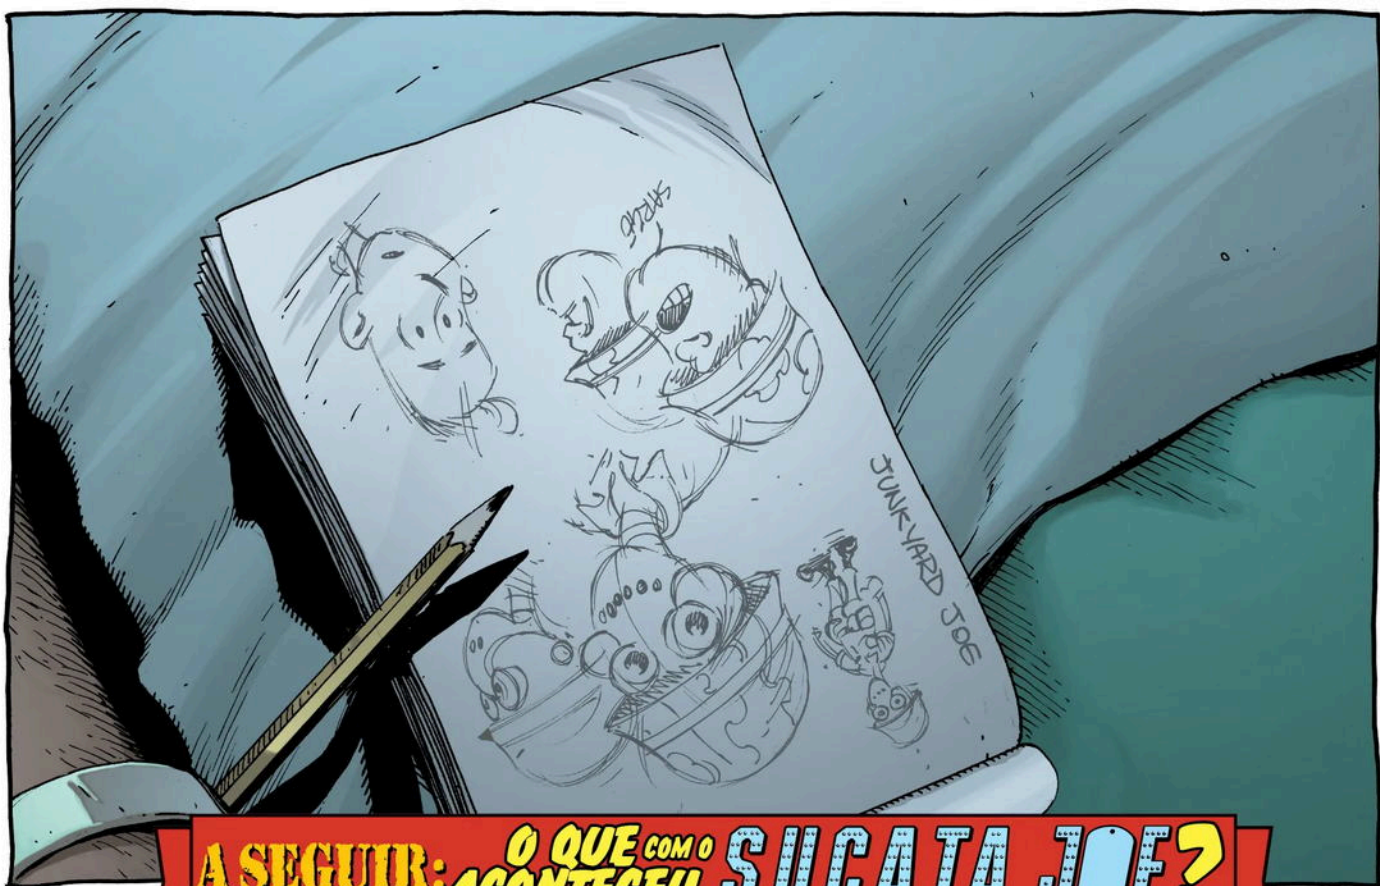

SIM.

OK,
DOUTOR.

EH... LAMEN-
TO PELO SEU
PELOTÃO.

MAD GHOST

On behalf of the entire creative team here at Mad Ghost, we want to thank you for purchasing JUNKYARD JOE #1. We hope you enjoyed the first chapter and are excited to jump to the present-day next issue and follow the story of veteran Muddy "Morris" Davis, witness his career as a successful cartoonist and experience the shocking moment of Junkyard Joe crashing back into his life. Our inspiration for everything Muddy and Joe are about to go through comes from the stories of so many veterans across the world. We give thanks to them, too.

If you haven't purchased the special black & white version of JUNKYARD JOE #1, we ask you to consider it. Not to put money in our pockets, but because every single cent of the profits will go to two incredible organizations: the NATIONAL COALITION FOR HOMELESS VETERANS in the U.S. and VETERANS AID in the U.K. We are honored to have partnered with them in the creation of this series and raising awareness and funds to support their worthy and amazing endeavors. In addition to the proceeds, Mad Ghost will be donating $2 per issue purchased, doing our best to get the entire cover price of the comic to help those who served.

Again, we thank you and them.

And special thanks to Kathryn Monet, CEO of the NATIONAL COALITION FOR HOMELESS VETERANS (NCHV), Dr. Hugh Milroy, CEO of VETERANS AID, and each of their dedicated teams of volunteers and staff for all the support, guidance and help you've given so many.

Finally, for any of you readers out there who would like to thank your friends and/or family for their service, please send us a letter with their name, service information and a short message of thanks to:

JUNKYARD JOE: THE BARRACKS
c/o Mad Ghost
4000 Warner Blvd., Building 95
Burbank, CA 91522

We will do our best to print your thank-you's in an upcoming issue.

SGT. RICHARD ETTER

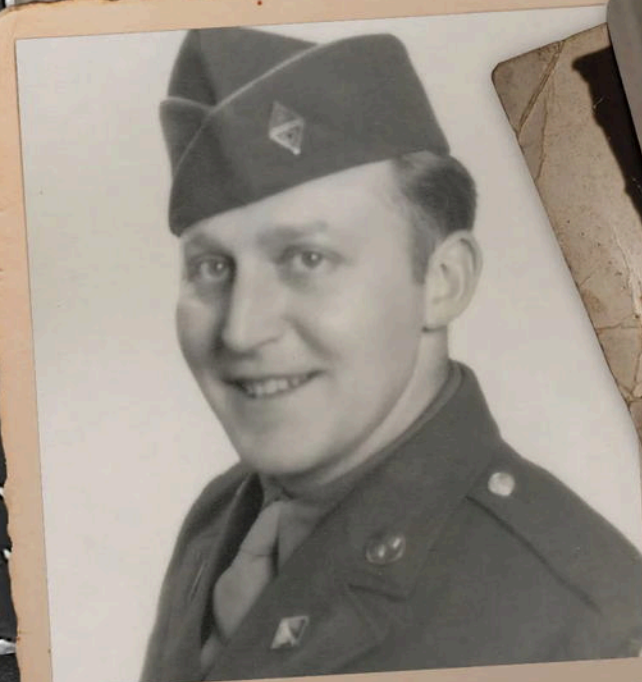

Having never had the chance to meet my grandfather, I asked my mom to write his dedication.
— GEOFF JOHNS

In 1943, my mother Laura was teaching Kindergarten in Pleasant Hill, Ohio, and living with her widower father in Covington, about five miles away. One of her fellow teachers was a petite, white-haired older woman named Mary Pearl Etter whose 5 sons (one biological, 4 stepsons) were all serving in the war. She said to my mom, "You know my stepson Richard is in Maryland at Aberdeen Proving Ground and he's really homesick. Why don't you write him a letter? I think you'd really like him." So my mom wrote and they became pen pals. Richard got home on leave for Thanksgiving in 1943 and picked mom up for their first date. He gave her his Army pin that night! They were married six weeks later on January 16, 1944 after a whirlwind romance.

Dad had an engineer's mind and a gift for detail and tenacity. It's no surprise he was a small arms weapons mechanic for the Army, the training for which was a natural to him since he grew up hunting and fishing. He repaired and maintained hand and shoulder weapons up to 60 caliber, disassembled and replaced worn and broken parts, and tested all weapons to keep them in good working order for the troops. After the war he was an avid collector of Revolutionary-era firearms and antique muzzle-loaders and he was a gunsmith throughout his life. His reputation for his precise work was renown.

Dad was an easy-going man, soft-spoken and smart as a whip. His dream of owning his great-grandfather's farm came true in 1953 and he spent the rest of his life loving the land and gardens, hunting, fishing, history, genealogy and opera. And most of all, his beloved wife Laura. He died in 1967 at the age of 51.

— BARBARA JOHNS

ALFRED EDWARD FORD AND MARGARET FORD (NÉE JENKINSON)

I remember Grandad showing me a photo of himself in the Royal Marines and forming the opinion that the Royal Marines must have been some kind of musical troop because he was clearly in some sort of band. I didn't know at the time that there was a little more to them and, indeed, to him than that.

He joined in 1936 at the tender age of 14 and excelled at music. It was thought that he would become a professional musician after the service but, for whatever reason, I never heard him play a note.

He met Nan, to the best of our knowledge, at a hockey match which may have been an inter-service event. She was in the Wrens (Women's Royal Naval Service) and in 1943, at the height of World War 2, they were married. Much of Nan's experiences during the war have resisted our efforts to piece together—she was always a little mysterious about those years. After the war, she left the service but Grandad continued until 1950 when he was discharged as a corporal.

Afterwards, they set about raising their family of three daughters and one son. The first of the daughters would go on to have a little boy who would one day draw the pictures for a comic book about war and soldiers and families.

COL. JAMES R. ALLAN

Among the many relatives in Mom's childhood neighborhood on City Island in the Bronx, lived her cousin, James Robert Allan. To the family, he was Robert or Robby. To me? Well, he was Uncle Robert.

Uncle Robert is somewhat of a heroic figure in our family. While all the men in his day served, he alone saw combat in not one, but two wars. The warrior. The globetrotter. The dashing pilot, who was known to land a seaplane on the little New England pond near the family cabins.

Upon being drafted in 1952, noting his BS in physics from Fordham University, the Army placed him in Officer Candidate School. Soon after, he received combat orders to Korea, having chosen Artillery ("because I don't like walking, and tanks are too hot," he said). While stationed there, and with my Aunt Doris's blessing, he became a career military man, and she a dedicated Army wife, moving from base to base, raising a family that eventually welcomed seven children.

His DD 214 reports the military data. A combat tour in Korea, two in Vietnam. Awards and decorations, among them the Legion of Merit with two Oak Leaf Clusters, Distinguished Flying Cross, Airman's Medal (6 awards), Bronze Star with two Oak Leaf Clusters. The campaigns, the promotions, the qualifications and ratings, the assignments, etc.

What the paperwork doesn't tell is the little connection I felt in sharing Uncle Robert's name. Of how family was so important to him as evidenced by his many letters home (I recall looking for drawing paper at Grandma's home and coming across a stack of military envelopes, with their signature red-white-and-blue borders and international stamps—letters from him to her). The excitement we kids felt when the Allan convoy rolled into view. How he good-naturedly commanded his and Aunt Doris's own battalion and enlisted us all into action. His easy manner that made us naturally want to follow him. And it doesn't express our shared sadness when he left us far too soon at the age of 55.

Uncle Robert, Aunt Doris ever by his side, is at rest at Arlington National Cemetery, Section 65, Site 795, in the eternal company of thousands of fellow warriors, his brothers in arms.

SPEC. RICHARD CUNNINGHAM

Growing up, all I knew about my dad's time in the Army was that he served in Vietnam and had a dog. In my adolescent brain, it sounded like a good time.

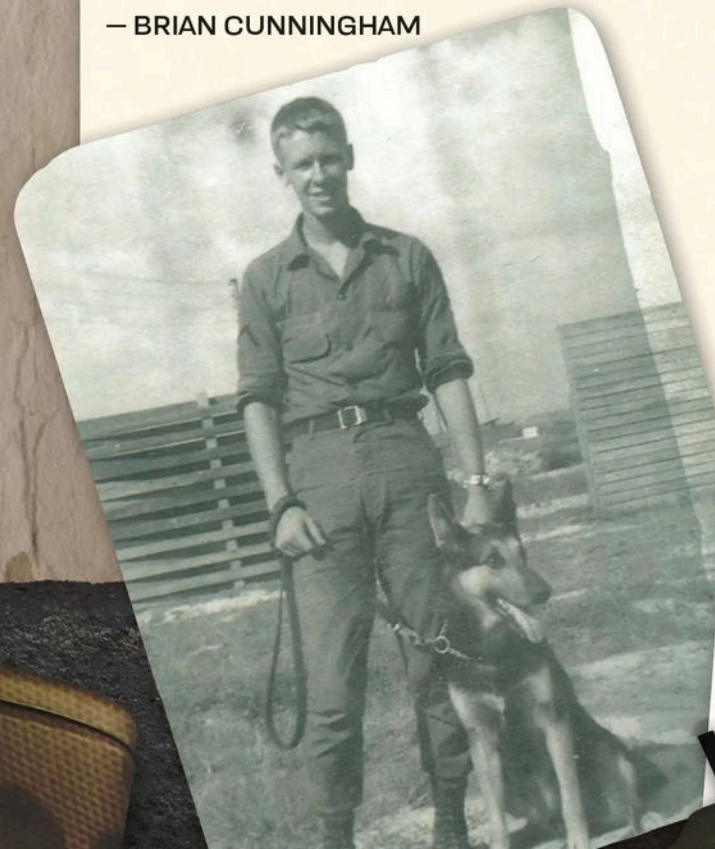

As I got older, I learned it was just about the opposite. A lower-middle-class kid in New York City, Dad knew he would likely be drafted, so he enlisted to get it over with. He left home by train during one of the worst blizzards in the city's history and traveled to basic training in North Carolina. Then he shipped off to Okinawa, where he met his new partner: a massive, snarling 90-pound German Shepherd named Smokey. Dad was being trained as a sentry dog handler. His first impression of Smokey? The dog leaped up to tear his throat out. If not for the fence between them, I would never have been born.

He and Smokey took a while to warm up to each other, to say the least. In Smokey's mind, Dad was merely the latest grunt he had to deal with, and he needed a lot of work. It sometimes felt like the dog was training Dad. But ultimately they overcame their "disagreements" and formed an unbreakable bond.

Soon the two of them joined the 212th Military Police stationed in Tay Ninh. Dad and Smokey were responsible for protecting the base camp, particularly the ammunition dump. Every night from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m., they would walk patrol, never knowing what lurked in the darkness. Sometimes they would join infantry units and conduct daytime "search and destroy" missions, which was ordinarily terrifying for any soldier leading a team into the jungle. But with Smokey at the front, these missions were usually a success.

When Dad's tour of duty ended, he had to say a tough good-bye to his buddy. After America pulled out of Vietnam, most dogs were labeled as "equipment" and just left behind. Smokey was likely one of them, and Dad lost one of the closest friends he ever had. We never really had a family dog, and I'm sure my dad considered it. But Smokey cast a long shadow. I'm sure no other dog could possibly measure up.

LT. COL. MICHAEL BLACKWELL

Some people are seemingly born knowing what they want to be in life. Most of us aren't that fortunate. My older brother Mike is one of those people. He knew since as far back as I can remember that he wanted to be in the Army. As the older brother, he often figured out what we were going to play, and more often than not we played "Army" and defended our backyard woods from the "Nazi menace," usually armed with nothing more than plastic baseball bats as our rifles and a lot of self-made sound effects.

When some kids joined Boy Scouts, that wasn't enough for Mike, so he found the Civil Air Patrol. Mike took to that paramilitary structure like a fish to water and easily rose through the ranks. From my earliest memories, Mike has always exhibited morality, ethics, and a devotion to what he saw was his duty. He followed up CAP with ROTC while attending college. Early in his college career, he met his future wife, Wendy. When Mike graduated and received his commission as a 2nd Lieutenant, she understood what she was signing up for as an Army spouse, and together they embarked on what would be a 20-year career of service.

Mike's calling was the MP Corps. Not surprising when our dad was a police officer and Mike majored in criminal justice. Mike's career took him from Kansas to Panama, Texas, Hawaii, Missouri (twice), and a stint in Afghanistan. We visited Mike in Hawaii and I got to see how people who worked under him reacted to him with genuine admiration. It was great to see that others saw in him what I have always seen. He retired a Lt. Colonel and continues working for the VA as a civilian contractor. He and his wife have two sons, both currently in the Army.

I am fortunate to have had an older brother like Mike. His senses of duty and honor are unparalleled. For years, whenever confronted with a moral or ethical dilemma, I could always gain clarity by asking myself, "What would Mike do?" The answers to those questions have never let me down, and neither has he.

— STEVE BLACKWELL
